

Operation Orion 2015 won the Platinum award at Student Achievement Awards 2017 in NUS

Operation Orion 2015, an OCIP under the Civil Engineering Club in Department of Civil and Environmental Engineering won the Platinum award under the Projects (Community Service) Category, Student Achievement Awards 2017.

Started in the year 2000, Operation Orion has been engaging overseas and local communities alike.

The highlight of the project was an overseas expedition to Prey Veng province, Cambodia. The trip's focus was the planning and management of the house and water catchment construction in the village, together with the education programs and Christmas celebration at the orphanage nearby. The great amount of interaction with the local community encouraged mutual learning as we gain valuable insights and perspectives about life in a different country.

The team would like to thank Dr Chew Soon Hoe, our student advisor from the Civil Engineering club, and the department for the guidance and support during the planning of this project. Operation Orion 2015 is also supported by the National Youth Council's Youth Expedition Project.

Please do support the upcoming Operation Orion 2017 project!

For more information, please do visit the link at <http://operationorion.ceclub.sg>